In exercise of the power conferred by section 15 of the Indian Defence Force Act, III, 1917, the Commander-in-Chief is pleased to promulgate the following regulations for the training of the Indian Defence Force:—

TRAINING.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

63. The Training Year will commence on the 1st April and terminate on the 31st March succeeding.

64. (a) General Officers Commanding Divisions, Divisional Areas and Independent Brigades are responsible for the training of all units of the Indian Defence Force the Headquarters of which are situated within the territorial limits of their respective areas, and will cause to be drawn up schemes for the preliminary and periodical training of such Corps in conjunction with the Officers Commanding Corps concerned. In the drawing up of such schemes the circumstances of each particular unit will be considered and reference will be made when necessary to the local civil or political authorities.

(b) In the case of Infantry and other Corps detachments of which are situated in main Divisional Areas these are, the General Officer Commanding the Division, Divisional Area or Independent Brigade within whose area the Headquarters of the Corps are situated will cause to be drawn up in conjunction with the Officer Commanding Corps and with the General Officers Commanding the Divisions, Divisional Areas and Independent Brigades within whose respective areas such detachments are situated schemes for the preliminary and periodical training of such Corps and detachments. When such schemes have been drawn up such General Officer Commanding will ensure that they are carried out and adhered to within his own area and will be responsible for the training of such officers and noncommissioned officers as may be posted to detachments within his area, and will exercise the usual powers of inspection of such detachments.

(c) A Commanding Officer is immediately responsible for the efficiency, training and readiness for war of the Unit under his command.

65. The general principles governing the training of the Indian Defence Force are given in chapter I, section 2, of the Indian Supplement to the Training and Manoeuvre Regulations.

66. Training will follow the instructions laid down in the latest editions of the Training Manuals of each arm as follows:—

(a) Light Horse and Mounted Rifles.

(6) Infantry Corps.

57. The training of Units of the Indian Defence Force should be carried out continuously throughout the training year, the groundwork of individual and sectional training being laid during the last week with a view to the squadron, battery, company and battalion, etc., training which is to follow in the cold weather.

The essential features of efficient training within the unit is that it should be systematic and progressive, and this can only be ensured by the adoption of the squadron, battery or company system as laid down in the various training manuals, under which regimental officers and non-commissioned officers are responsible to their immediate commanding officers for and carry out entirely, with the assistance of the permanent staff, the training and instruction of their men.

58. Active Companies, etc., being liable for general military service in any part of India, will be trained in such a manner as will fit them at the earliest possible date to fulfil their obligations.

Their training should be confined wholly to such elements as are essential to secure in war and should aim at:—

(a) The introduction of discipline into all ranks.

(b) The production of an efficient body of officers and non-commissioned officers to serve both as instructors and leaders, and

(c) The thorough instruction of the rank and file, at first individually and then in tactical units with the object of producing units with a high service ability to shoot, march and manoeuvre. Until this general standard has been attained specialisation in Light Horse, Mounted Rifle and Infantry Units will not be encouraged except in so far as it may be necessary to train Machine Gun and Signal Sections as laid down in the authorized establishment of those arms.

59. Reserve and Depot Companies, etc., are liable for local military service as defined in Rule 21, and will primarily be trained with a view to carrying out efficiently any role that could be allotted to them for the purpose of internal defence. Subject to this they will be given a sound grounding in the ordinary duties of the arm in which they belong.

60. General Officers Commanding will organize classes for officers and non-commissioned officers as laid down in Training and Manoeuvre Regulations, Section 4 (II). The subjects of instructions selected should be those of the most practical value to officers and non-commissioned officers in the training of their arm. They will also take every step to encourage the initiative of officers and to make them think and command their own; and, where possible, should attach them to regular and territorial units during training and give them every opportunity of attending manoeuvres, field days and lectures. Vacancies at courses of instruction for regular and territorial officers and non-commissioned officers should also (where possible) be allotted to Corps of the Indian Defence Force.

All officers will be conversant with the following books:—

Field Service Regulations, Part I, Operations.

A general knowledge of the book with special reference to Chapters V, VI, VII and pages 160 to 168.

Training and Manoeuvre Regulations and Indian Supplement thereto. A general knowledge of training portions.

Training Manual (As affecting the Arm of the officer).

Manual of Ceremonial (Guard duties and rifle exercises only).

Machine Regulations, Parts I and II and Indian Supplement. A general knowledge.

Manual of Field Engineering. A general knowledge with special reference to the defence of posts.

Manual of Map Reading and Field Sketching. A practical knowledge.

Bayonet Fighting, 1914.

Army Regulations, India, Volumes I, II and X.—So far as they affect the Indian Defence Force.

King's Regulations.—So far as they affect the Indian Defence Force.

Manual of Military Law.—So far as it affects the Indian Defence Force.

All officers will be instructed in the interior economy, management and discipline of their Corps and in the system of pay and intimation the supervision of which will devolve upon them in the event of the calling out of their Corps for General or Local Military Service.

21. It is the duty of the Adjutant of a Corps of the Indian Defence Force to act as the Staff officer of the Commanding Officer. The Adjutant will, under the Orders of the Commanding Officer, encourage officers to train their own commands and will in every way in his power assist them to acquire military knowledge and to prepare themselves for examination. The fact that courses are to be arranged by Brigade and higher authorities to assist officers to acquire further knowledge of their profession in no way shames the Adjutant, under the orders of the Commanding Officer, from the performance of this duty.

The Adjutant will exercise a general supervision over the military training of the Corps and over the training of recruits.

22. The duties of the permanent staff in so far as the training of the unit is concerned are namely those of instructing under the order of the Commanding Officer, the officers and non-commissioned officers of the Unit, and of supervising the instruction given by the officers and non-commissioned officers to the men, but they will avoid usurping the functions of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the Unit who must be entirely responsible for the training and efficiency of their own commands.

In certain cases it will be necessary for the permanent staff to undertake the elementary training of recruits during their preliminary training and before they are passed out to join their companies, but the system to be aimed at as far as possible is that the officers should be the instructors of their own non-commissioned officers and that both officers and non-commissioned officers should instruct their own men. By this means only our officers and non-commissioned officers acquire the habit of command and powers of instruction and become, as they should be, the leaders of their men.

23. Artillery Corps at Defended Ports will be allotted a part of the defence, and the Officer Commanding Royal Garrison Artillery will arrange for guns and other necessary stores to be placed at their disposal for instructional purposes. Opportunity should be given to each Corps to attend defence rehearsals at their station.

24. Artillery Corps units at Defended Ports allotted to the fixed armament will carry out practice according to the regulations embodied in "Instructions for Practice Seaward, India, 1914-15"; and units allotted to the movable armament according to the "Instructions for the Practice, Royal Garrison Artillery, Inland defences and Movable Armament, India, 1914-15."

25. Electrical Engineer Companies will receive technical instruction in the care and working of all engines, steam engines, dynamos, search light projectors, arc lamps and the necessary apparatus for projectors, electrical communicating apparatus, telephones and electrical cables.

They will carry out their Annual Training Camp in the works of defence in which they are allotted.

26. Training Camps will as far as possible be held only at places where works of defence, modern armament, ranges or ground for field training are available according to the branch of the service.

27. Every S.S. Instructor of the Indian Defence Force will be attached to a Regular British or Imperial Unit for one month every three years for drill and instruction in matters connected with his appointment. During his absence no other appointment will be made in his place in the Corps.

28. A S.S. Instructor who has not been previously trained in the execution of minor repairs of firearms should be sent at the earliest opportunity to an annual for instruction. Applications will be submitted on I.A.F. X.-1839.

29. General Officers Commanding Divisions, Divisional Areas and Independent Brigades will at their discretion arrange for the training of non-commissioned officers of the Indian Defence Force as instructors in marksmanship, machine gun, signalling, physical training, bayonet fighting, the duties of pioneers, etc., and for the individual training of senior sergeants, sergeants, orderly tailors, transport storekeepers, and the several grades of artificers in Corps in which such are part of the authorized establishments.

30. A Company, etc., Commander is responsible that all non-commissioned officers, other than specialists in the Headquarters Establishment, receive adequate instruction and preparation in all professional matters, whether connected with training, interior economy or technical duties appertaining to their arm of the service, to fit them for promotion to a higher rank.

A soldier will not be promoted nor will a non-commissioned officer be confirmed in his rank, unless he is recommended by his Company, etc., Commander, who will certify that the candidate (except in the case of soldiers who are candidates for promotion to non-commissioned rank as specialists in the Headquarter Establishment to whom (2) below only applies) is—

(1) A capable instructor according to his rank and service in all technical or other military duties appertaining to his arm of the service.

(2) That he possesses according to his rank a competent knowledge of discipline, duties on guard and duties connected with interior economy, so far as the same affect the Indian Defence Force.

(3) That his character and general qualities are such as to fit him for promotion.

St. Training in First Aid is of importance to the Indian Defence Force as in the event of Units being called out on emergency, medical assistance may not always be available.

Courses of instruction under the auspices of the St. John's Ambulance Association should be held annually.

82. Officers and soldiers who have undergone a course of training in stretcher drill as laid down in the King's Regulations and have qualified will be granted a certificate on Indian Army Form X-1841.

83. A Commanding Officer may at his discretion subject candidates for promotion to or in non-commissioned or warrant rank to an examination to test their qualifications.

MUSKETRY.

84. Musketry Training will be carried out in accordance with Musketry Regulations, Parts I and II and the Indian Supplement thereto.

The importance of thorough preliminary training, including instruction in the care of arms, is impressed upon all ranks.

85. The Annual allowance of remuneration will be as follows:—

85. Before blank and dummy ammunition is issued on parade the officer or instructor will personally inspect all rifles, magazines, pouches and bandoliers to ascertain that they contain no ball ammunition. A certificate will be rendered that this has been done and also that the men were rendered that they are not allowed to have any ball ammunition in their possession.

Dummy cartridges may be issued to the men for practice in rapid loading in their spare time. Company, etc., Commanders will satisfy themselves by frequent inspection that the dummy cartridges are correctly accounted for.

In such cases the Commanding Officer must be satisfied that adequate precautions will be taken for the safe custody of such ammunition.

(Financial.)

NOTIFICATION.

Ordinance No. 14 of 1917.

No. 14.—The following notification of the Government of India is published:—

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

Accounts and Finance—Public Debt.

Dated, the 20th April 1917.

No. 200-F.—In Oath Finance Department's Notification No. 145-F, dated the 6th of April 1917, the Government of India published the details of two advances which had been decided to assist Government servants in subscribing to the Indian War Loan by means of monthly deductions from their pay. The first advance, which enables the monthly payments to be spread over 36 months, was made available to all Government servants throughout India; but the second advance, in which advantage was taken of an offer of the Bank of Bengal in paying the period of payment to two years, was at the outset confined to officers serving in the Bengal Presidency and in certain other Provinces in which the Bank of Bengal operates. The Government of India have now much pleasure in announcing that the Bank of Bombay and the Bank of Madras have agreed to make available to Government servants employed in the respectively named areas the same facilities for subscribing to the War Loan by means of 36 monthly deductions from their pay as are afforded by the Bank of Bengal's advance. Accordingly the Government of India, on a request from an officer, who desires to subscribe in this way to the Indian War Loan will deduct from his pay and pay to the Bank the amount due each month for repayment of the loan's advance. The terms on which advances will be made by the Banks of Bombay and Madras are in all respects similar to those of the Bank of Bengal advance, as described in Appendix II to the notification of the 6th of April 1917; and, as stated in paragraph 2 of that notification, the advance will be allocated and not in addition to the Government advance described in Appendix A.

2. It is also notified that the Bank of Bengal advance is applicable to officers serving in the United Provinces, Assam and Delhi in addition to the Provinces named in the margin of paragraph 2 of the notification of the 6th of April.

Government, May 9, 1917.

No. 18.—Under the terms of the notification of the Government of India, Finance Department, No. 145-F, dated the 6th April 1917 and No. 200-F, dated the 20th April 1917, officers desiring to subscribe to the War Loan under the Bank of Madras advance are required to forward their applications to the Assistant-Comptroller, Madras, not later than the 15th May 1917. In view of the fact that the time allowed is very limited, the Government of India have now been pleased to fix the 30th June 1917 as the latest date up to which applications may reach the Assistant-Comptroller.

On receipt of the applications, the Comptroller of Madras will make an advance of the full amount of the advance subscribed, and the repayments due to the Bank will be debited monthly from the pay bills presented to each of the 36 months, July 1917 to June 1919, inclusive.

Government, May 31, 1917.

Metformin (Glucophage) is a first-line drug for the treatment of type 2 diabetes. It is a biguanide that works by decreasing the liver's production of glucose and increasing the body's sensitivity to insulin. Metformin is also used to treat polycystic ovary syndrome (PCOS) and to prevent heart disease. It is generally well-tolerated, but can cause side effects such as gastrointestinal upset, lactic acidosis, and vitamin B12 deficiency. It is important to take metformin as directed and to monitor blood sugar levels regularly.

19. It was resolved, subject to the sanction of Government, to remit transit dues amounting to Rs. 522-8-0 on certain cases of goods on S.S. "Tara" because of the dues in question having accrued by reason of delays in the arrival of shipping documents due to prevailing conditions.
